About the programme

“There is always a choice about the way you do your work, even if there is not a choice about the work itself.” – Stephen C. Lundin, author of the bestselling Fish

“It is natural for everyone everywhere to have peaks and valleys at work and in life” – Spencer Johnson

The retention of good staff and cost for replacing them is always a good challenge for HR professionals and senior management. Whilst there are sometimes gaps between employers’ offers and employees’ expectations regarding benefits and remuneration packages, how else can we sustain good employee engagement in today’s workplace?

Besides, as management, would it be useful to pick up some tips to help sustain your success and positivity at work?

Aims of this interactive workshop on Positive Thinking:

1. To understand why employees may not be motivated and how to increase positivity at work.
2. To learn the benefits of positive thinking and how to facilitate them in the workplace.
3. To refine one's own communication skills, accountability, trust and set goals at work.
4. To build positive mindsets and an effective tool to enhance self and employees' engagement.
