

Tax Issues Arising from the Digital Economy

Programme Code: TFA150210

On 16 September 2014, the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development released its final report on the tax challenges of the digital economy (Action 1) under its Action Plan on Base Erosion and Profit Shifting. In today's rapid-changing and highly competitive business environment, greater use of technology and the Internet in conducting businesses is an inevitable trend. As such, it is important to understand the tax implications and consequences of these changing ways of doing of business and business models. A key question is whether the increasing use of technology will bring changes to the analysis of the tax issues in business transactions.

The seminar will cover the following questions:

- What are the latest developments and tax challenges of the digital economy?
- How does this affect tax practice and administration in Hong Kong?
- How should the business community react to the issues identified?
