Message from the President and the Chief Executive and Registrar

On the cover

The cover shows a scene that reflects Hong Kong’s efforts to combine leadership as an international finance centre with livability, environmental awareness and work-life balance. The theme of the Institute’s annual report this year is sustainability, a topic of growing interest to governments, companies and investors across the world. It’s an area in which the profession – as guardians of Hong Kong’s financial system – is committed to playing an important role. In the picture is Peggie Ho of Time To Grow, a group dedicated to urban farming, who is tending a roof garden on the Bank of America Tower in Central. See our full annual report for more.
Dear members,

While Hong Kong’s growth has slowed in recent quarters, and China continues to carefully reposition its economy from an export orientation to domestic consumption amid an uncertain international financial and trade environment, the accounting profession in Hong Kong continues to display strength and resilience.

The Hong Kong Institute of CPAs is steadfastly adhering to its vision of being an internationally recognized, world-class, top quality professional body that serves both the business community and the wider public interest in Hong Kong and contributes to its sustainable development as a leading financial centre.

It is especially important amid the current global environment that the Institute meets its goals to contribute to and influence the future of the profession worldwide.

As a statutory and key professional membership organization, the Institute provides clear, decisive and innovative leadership to a financially and business-attuned accounting profession.

During the year, the Institute faced a number of challenges and achieved much progress through championing thought leadership and upholding core ethical values, the public spirit of accounting and the integrity of the profession.

Launching major reform

As the Hong Kong regulatory and practising environment evolves to meet international expectations and best practices, the Institute must work closely with the government and regulators to ensure the new audit regulatory regime is appropriate for Hong Kong.

The Institute must always keep a careful eye on how the profession is regulated in order to preserve our strength and remain in line with international benchmarks.

The Institute must always keep a careful eye on how the profession is regulated in order to preserve our strength and remain in line with international benchmarks.

The Institute began its work on audit reform in 2008 and developed proposals to submit to the government. That process culminated in 2013 with the release by the Institute of an information paper, and a request for members to comment, on the Regulatory Framework for Listed Company Audits jointly developed by the government, the Financial Reporting Council and the Institute.

The resulting member consultation indicated strong support for the Council’s position on the proposed reform. However, members indicated a general concern over the lack of detail in some of the framework proposals resulting in questions on the powers and functions of the independent oversight body and how such powers would be exercised fairly and through due process.

The Institute will continue to work with the government and stakeholders to ensure fair debate is encouraged on outstanding issues.

Upholding quality

We ensure that our Qualification Programme remains globally recognized and continues to provide the skills, expertise and ethics training needed by our prospective members, who will be charged with a critical role to maintain Hong Kong’s status as an international financial centre.

Today’s accountants need highly tuned skills and, to support this, we are conducting a review of the QP qualifying process and revamping the programme’s content and structure to ensure that the accountants we train have the skill-set to meet the demands of employers and the global market.

The Institute believes that an accountant’s learning is lifelong, and we are committed to providing the best education to hone their skills, broaden their expertise and develop their specializations. We are working on a financial controllership programme to support members who wish to become professional accountants in business.

“The Institute must always keep a careful eye on how the profession is regulated in order to preserve our strength and remain in line with international benchmarks.”
We will also continue to strengthen our specialist qualifications in insolvency and specialist training in taxation.

Global influence
The Institute, as the standard setting body, strives to enhance public trust and confidence in the profession by fully converging with international accounting, auditing and ethics standards since 2005. We help our members adhere to high-quality standards and oversee their professional conduct.

The commitment to use international standards and benchmarks underscores the Institute’s role in assuring the quality of service provided by professional accountants.

We represent Hong Kong’s interests in many regional and global organizations, such as the International Federation of Accountants and the Global Accounting Alliance. We play an influential role at the Asian-Oceanian Standard-Setters Group, taking up the chairmanship for two years from November 2013. As chair, the Institute represents the group on the IASB Accounting Standards Advisory Forum, further deepening our dialogue with the International Accounting Standards Board. We also addressed important issues such as reporting of non-compliance with laws and regulations to the International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants.

In the Mainland, the Institute maintains dialogue with its counterparts in accordance with the joint declarations to ensure ongoing convergence of Chinese and Hong Kong standards. This work is of great importance as it emphasizes the special role the Institute can play in facilitating the Mainland’s continuing engagement with the international accounting community.

Fostering Mainland ties
Our presence in China and international forums enhances Hong Kong’s unique role in serving and globally connecting the Greater China market. The Institute has established a special advisory group to develop consistent and effective promotion of the Hong Kong CPA brand across the boundary.

Our interactivity with the Mainland includes networking events; meetings with national, provincial and municipal government and professional organizations; business trips and visits; trade and industry fairs; and seminars throughout the year to help our members – whether professional accountants in business or small- and medium-sized practitioners – to establish, grow and enhance their business.

The signing of the Mainland and Hong Kong Closer Economic Partnership Arrangement in 2003 and subsequent supplements have not only resulted in examination paper exemptions for QP graduates seeking Chinese Institute of CPAs admission, but have also opened up talks with the Mainland on mutual recognition and market access for Hong Kong accountants in China.

The Institute was able to obtain clarification of a Ministry of Finance exposure draft that had caused concern over possible restrictions on the provision of audit services by our members to Mainland entities listed in Hong Kong.

At a meeting with the Institute, the ministry reaffirmed its commitment to the continuous opening up of the Mainland market to Hong Kong under CEPA and made it clear that the exposure draft’s primary objective was to strengthen regulation over illegal cross-border audit activities in the Mainland.

Another important subject that we expect to resolve through dialogue with the ministry is the matter of access to audit working papers in the Mainland. We would like to thank the Supervision and Inspection Bureau of the Ministry of Finance for inspection work that has been done on our behalf.

Helping members succeed
The Institute’s ideas, products and services must serve the needs of our members and support the development of their professional careers.

Despite the rapidly changing regulatory environment, members are able to stay up to date through our supporting initiatives, including seminars, technical guidance notes and website resources. Information about major developments that have substantial impact on the accounting profession, such as Hong Kong’s new Companies Ordinance, is communicated and explained in a timely, effective way.

As a membership organization, the Institute fully engages with members to create a strong sense of professional pride, loyalty and inclusiveness in many ways. In addition to professional and technical support, the Institute facilitates various leisure groups formed under the Sports and Recreation Club. Enthusiasm, good health and a strong sense of work-life balance help create well-rounded professionals. Total membership of the club’s interest groups is now over 4,000.

Engaging stakeholders
The importance and relevance of the Institute’s statutory roles, mission, values and brand must be effectively communicated to members, partners, other professional organizations, governmental and regulatory bodies, the broader business community and the public in general.

The past year has seen a number of issues related to the accounting profession attracting mainstream attention, such as audit regulation reform, the Ministry of Finance exposure draft and the new Companies Ordinance.

Such news events are opportunities for the Institute to explain the position of the profession in the wider context of its role in protecting the public interest and contributing to Hong Kong’s status as an important international financial centre.

We also offer expertise and insight to the media in addressing crucial and complicated financial and business topics. The Institute’s leadership, Council and expert committee members were sought for comment on major issues such as the Hong Kong budget.

Through engagement with the media at home and abroad, the Institute demonstrates its members’ diversity of skills, competence and values, ethics and integrity, international status and influence, and special relationship with the Mainland.

The award-winning monthly magazine A Plus is the Institute’s flagship publication, which examines accounting, finance and business in Hong Kong, China and the world, through the eyes of the Institute and its members. It encompasses news and features, as well as lighter reading reflecting the interests and enthusiasm of our members, whether they are in public practice, business or government, newly graduated or considering retirement.

Another initiative is our cooperation with Xinlicai, a magazine for finance professionals published in the Mainland under the auspices of the Ministry of Finance. It reproduces the popular Success Ingredient profile interviews of our members published in A Plus. With its wide distribution network among top executives and government officials, we are able to explain the strength and attributes of our CPAs and how they are able to contribute to the economic progress of the Mainland.

Making a difference
Our devotion to integrity, ethics and public trust has led to our pursuit of activities to benefit the wider community.

Members continue to bring the particular skills of the accounting profession, in a non-partisan and independent way, to relevant areas of public policy debate through active participation in consultations conducted by the government, regulators and international bodies.

We have made submissions on important topics such as bankruptcy, tax, trade, anti-money laundering and financial reporting. Our commitment to furthering the public interest is manifested in such endeavours as the annual Best Corporate Governance Disclosure Awards and the publication of a new guide to better corporate governance.

This year, we are introducing a corporate social responsibility element to our annual report for the first time, to set out what the Institute’s management has been doing to enhance workplace quality, environmental protection, operating practices and community involvement.

The Institute’s commitment to society runs long and deep and we are still innovating. The “CPAs for NGOs” programme, launched last year, is now up and running and will benefit many smaller NGOs that lack the resources and skills needed to sustain sound governance and management.

Our finances
The Institute has strengthened its financial position in order to continue to provide members with a high level of service, to sustain important programmes that we have developed, and to provide funding to address future issues.

This reporting year, the group recorded a HK$21 million surplus after tax, stemming from a natural membership increase, the recovery of disciplinary costs, and reduced expenditure as a result of streamlining our operations. The result is a leaner, more efficient Institute that is better placed to provide stronger member service.

Our net current assets cover about 10 months of operating costs. The Institute will continue to implement prudent stewardship of members’ funds to further enhance the QP qualifying process, provide relevant and innovative thought leadership, and fund programmes that extend the profession’s international influence.

We are committed to maintaining our high standard of financial management to meet the foreseeable needs of the future.

All in all, this has been an eventful year. We would like to take this opportunity to thank the many members who have volunteered their time, energy and expertise for the betterment of the profession, and extend our sincere appreciation to the two Vice Presidents, Council and committee members, and the staff for their tireless efforts in contributing towards the achievement of the Institute’s objectives on behalf of its members.

Sincere regards,

Clement Chan
President
