Course outline

Financial instrument standards are often viewed as the most lengthy and complicated standards among the full set of HKFRSs. Moreover, many amendments and new standard and interpretations have been continuously introduced for them, including HKFRS 9. The seminar aims at using a simple but comprehensive approach integrated with cases and examples to explain the application of these standards.

Part I

- Financial Assets and Liabilities: Recognition and Measurements
- Classification of financial instruments
 - Initial recognition and measurements
 - Subsequent measurement

Part II

- Financial Instruments: Complex and Presentation Issues
- Derivative accounting and embedded derivatives
 - Hedging and hedging accounting
 - Presentation and disclosure issues
