About the programme

The core principles of accounting, management and business are the same the world over. But businesses differ in different regions. Western cultures are built on rules and transparency, while most of the Asian cultures are relationship-based. A Western viewpoint may perceive Asian culture as presenting challenges, especially in areas of performance management, rights of minority shareholders, governance, fraud and corruption.

The speaker will look into the following areas:-

- Is the Western governance/business model being adopted by Asia;
- What are the strengths and weaknesses of Asian culture in promoting good governance;
- How trusted people can play a positive role in companies/boards;
- The value of trusted relations in Asian businesses.
