Little Angel's Music Wonderland I

(For 1-2 years old) :

This is the stage where a child goes through the most rapid brain development. The course focuses on stimulating a child's cognitive development through singing and identifying sounds, visual images, colors... etc. It also aims to establish a child's linguistic and communicative ability by enhancing his/her rhythmic and egocentric sensibility through story reading, vocabulary learning, playing of simple percussion and body gesturing.

Little Angel's Music Wonderland II

(For 2-3years old) :

This is also a critical stage of establishing a child's linguistic and social capability. The course is designed to enrich the knowledge of children about the world (including animals, seasons, famous musicians... etc.) by implementing a series of interesting activities on Mother Nature. The course also features many challenging keyboard games and stories sharing to further elevate young children's musical sensibility and sociability.

Little Angel's Music Wonderland III

(For 3-4.5years old) :

This is the stage where children's curiosity grows with their knowledge! This course will furnish the kids with required ingredients at this stage of growth by exploring into the mysterious aquatic world. By featuring role playing and story-telling in the course, children will learn more of their school yard; and with different types of string and plucked instruments, they'll also learn how to further enjoy music that are with different kinds of cultural background. The children will choose their favorite instrument with confidence for their future musical study and performance.

Little Angel's Music Adventurers

(For 4.5-6years old) :

Children at this age may already be learning a musical instrument, but the limited lecture time does not allow the instructor to simultaneously teach an appropriate amount of musical skills, theories and knowledge to students. This comprehensive course will guide the children to explore and understand our society, planet and universe and will also introduce to them some significant musical elements through string instruments.

Why Music???

A data-driven review by North-Western University has pulled together research that links musical training to learning skills, including language, speech, memory, attention, and even vocal emotion. The study reviewed literature showing that musicians are more successful than non-musicians in learning to incorporate sound patterns for a new language into words.

“We've found that years of music training may also improve how sounds are processed for language and emotion. Playing music engages the ability to extract relevant patterns, such as the sound of one's own instrument, harmonies and rhythms, from the "soundscape",’ said Prof Kraus.

Children who are musically trained are better at observing pitch changes in speech and have a better vocabulary and reading ability than children who did not receive music training.

Researcher Nina Kraus said the data strongly suggests that the neural connections made during musical training also prepare the brain for other aspects of human communication.

Aiming to stimulate multiple senses to optimize brain development in the early years, Little Angel's Music Wonderland is a multiple intelligence music program that provides a rich sensory environment for young children to actively participate in age-appropriate musical activities, forging neural connections that give them lifelong benefits in almost every area of school, including reading and math.
