

Overview of Accounting for Group Restructuring and Certain Common Accounting Issues for Initial Public Offering

Group restructuring is often viewed as one of the most complicated areas in accounting as it usually involves business combinations that are not governed by existing accounting standards, and on which minimal guidance has been issued. This workshop aims to provide an overview on accounting for group restructuring and highlight some potential implementation issues in the accounting of such transactions. This workshop will also provide an overview of certain common accounting issues which may arise in an initial public offering exercise.
